

I Am Who I Want to Be:

A Pleasure
Activist's
Zine

Crippling Pleasure

Disability and queerness inform pleasure. The western world is not built for any of these things.

SCHALK SAYS:

"ASK more questions,
take a little more time."

There are always assumptions, so communication is key for pleasure AND activism.

Student, Theorist, Activist

Time is money
and disabled people take more time to exist.

You have to want to live in order to make change.
Find pleasure to make more of it.

Joy and comfort are radically opposed to capitalism.

Queer AND Strange

Labels are boxes that people choose to sit in, and like cats, they are only pleasing when one chooses to sit there.

?>

Asexual >

Pansexual >

Demisexual >

?>

Queer

Weird Little Girl to Strange Nonbinary Adult Pipeline

I'm Still Autistic

Just because you can't see my disability, doesn't mean it's not there.

There are as many ways to be disabled as there are disabled people. Every way needs access to care.

Lover, Friend, Relative

My pleasure has honesty.

B's pleasure has trust.

S's pleasure has spontaneity.

A's pleasure has passion.

J's pleasure has structure.

Caring for B looks different from caring for S, caring for A,
caring for J

We see each other as we are,
as we present ourselves.

Constellating

How would you constellate your own journey with pleasure?

Peryton Reese 2024